Diss.

¹
Now the Hooligans lived in Swate Ballymagee,
An' they gev a big fancy dhress ball, d'ye see.—
Their frinds an' their rilatives kem to the ball,
An' faith they were wondherful characters all.
There was Casey as "Julius Cayser,"
(An' it gev him a cowld sich a "snayzer")
Thro' his clothes bein' thin, an' young Thady O'Flynn,—
Was Brian O'Linn, in a suit of sheepskin,
An' Fogarty— moind ye I'm tellin' the trooth,
Said he riprisinted "King Henry" the "twoth."
At Hooligan's Fancy Dhress Ball—

D'ye moind?

At Hooligan's Fancy Dhress Ball. (whoop.)

²
Young Dinnis Muldoon as "Prince Hamlet" kem in,
Wid Donegal whiskers all over his chin.
He danced wid Miss Casey— (as little Bo-Peep)
An' he thrapped on her crook, an' they fell in a heap.
Thin on them fell Misthress MC Carty—
In the driss av some notable party—
An M^{rs} Mulcrone, she's a weight av her own,
Fer she weighs twinty stone, an she made them all groan,
Thin MC Carty the "mick," he pulled Dinnis out quick,
An' he gev him a "lick," wid a bit of a shtick,
An' he said he was spoilin' the ball.—
D'ye moind?

The Hooligan's Fancy Dhress Ball. (whoop.)

³
Now MC Carty was drassed up as Brian Boru,—
An' Dinnis soon painted his eye black an' blue.
The rist av the party soon joined in the fun—
An' MC Carty he howled, an' he begged for a gun.
Fer he vowed that young Dinnis he'd shlaughter,
An' thin M^{rs} Hooligan's daughter—
She fetched him a knock, wid a blundherbuss stock,
'Twas a big wooden block, an' it gev him a shock,
Thin Casey's son Ned tuk him home to his bed,
He was very noigh dead, wid the thump on his head,
That he got at the Fancy Dhress Ball,

D'ye moind?

That he got at the Fancy Dhress Ball. (whoop.)

⁴
Shure the rist av the partywint off in great shtyle,
An' the costumes av some wud have made a cat shmoile.
There was "Oliver Cromwell" in trousers an' coat,
Wid a beard on his chin loike the hair on a goat.
He was dancin' a jig wid a fairy,
An' her name was Bedalia Carey,
An' there was jiggin' an' reelin'; an' toein' an' heelin';
An' kissin' an' squealin'; an' tinder appealin';
An' we batthered the flure, till the piper was sore,
Thin we all wint home shure, at a quarter to "fure."
Wid a cheer for the Fancy Dhress Ball.

D'ye moind?

For Hooligan's Fancy Dhress Ball. (whoop.)
