Written by CHARLES JEFFERYS.

Composed by HENRY RUSSELL.

Andante con espressivo.

PIANO

FORTE.

Oh! weep not, oh! weep not, nor i-----dly sigh, Thy tears can re--call not the days gone by: The "quiver---ing breath and the throb--bing brow" Should be lost in the light of hope's pure glow. Let me-mo-ry paint in its bright-est rays The joys of thy heart in its hap-piest days; But ne-glect not the precepts, forget not the prayer Which thy mother taught thee from her old arm chair"

Say, dost thou not deem her a Spir-----it blest, Whose home is in realms of e-- ter-----nal rest, And did she not teach thee that Hope was giv'n A foretaste on Earth of the joys of Heaven? Of all her precepts re-- mem---ber one And practise it now "Thy will be done?" In fan-.....cy then may'st thou see her there And hear... her voice from that old arm chair.

O think of her words, of her looks... re---sign'd Of her cheer----ful heart, her con-tent-----ed mind Of the hope-ful... lessons she taught... thy youth, As she turn'd with thee o'er the page of Truth. Then weep not, oh!

weep not nor i..... dly sigh Thy tears can re--call not the days gone by: Let thy morn-ing hymn—and thy ev'..... ning prayer Be breath'd in hope by that old arm chair.
