The image shows a page from a handwritten musical manuscript. It features four staves of music written in a historical style, likely Gregorian chant notation. The notes are diamond-shaped and placed on a four-line staff. The lyrics are written in Latin below the staves. The first staff begins with 'nus meas ij leuabo manus meas. Sicut adipe et piguedine'. The second staff continues with 'repletur anima mea repletur anima mea, ij et labijs ex'. The third staff has 'ul ta ti o nis laudabit os meum os me um laudabit os me'. The fourth staff ends with 'um.' and is followed by two empty staves.

The image shows a page from an antique book containing a handwritten musical score. The score is written on four staves of five-line music paper. The notation consists of square notes with stems, some with flags, and rests. The lyrics are written in a Gothic script below the notes. The text is Latin and appears to be a liturgical or devotional piece. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some staining and wear at the edges. The book's binding is visible on the left side.

The image shows a single page from an antique manuscript, likely a Latin liturgical book. It features a musical score with four staves of music. The lyrics are written in a Gothic script below the notes. The text is a Latin prayer or psalm, mentioning 'pauperibus', 'iusticiam', 'sectum', 'cornu eius', 'gloria', 'peccator', 'desiderium peccatorum', and 'bit'. There are two 'ij' (12) markings, one at the end of the second line and one below the first line of the fourth staff. The manuscript is bound in a dark cover, and the page is slightly aged and yellowed.
