I want to hear her voice so dear, As I used to in the days gone by.

II.

"You cannot speak to Mammy here," he heard a voice reply,
 "Our wires don't reach to that far distant land,"
 And hearing this the little lad began to sob and cry,
 It was a thing he did not understand,
 Said he, "I thought the telephone could make our voices heard.
 To people who were miles and miles away,
 I do so want to speak to my dear Mammy in the sky,
 You don't know what a lot I have to say.

Chorus.

III.

The father who had overheard the little fellow's words,
 Approached the lad and tenderly he said:
 "You cannot make dear Mammy hear upon the telephone,
 But in your prayers before you go to bed,
 Just ask the angels fair to take a message up for you,
 I'm sure that they will hear and understand."
 That evening when he said his prayers beside his Daddy's knee,
 He said: "Dear Angels in the Better Land—

Chorus
