When gen-tle night in sa-ble man-tle dressed, With When erst we wan-dered in the moon-lit glade Thy voice of ho-ly calm and peace, The nois-y cares of day shall glancegave an-swer un-to mine. The pressure of thy hand the lull to rest, And bid its strife and tu-mult cease. From truth be-trayed, That filled me with a glow di-vine. All
